

Student Wives to Climax Year with PHT Banquet Tonight

ANNING NEXT YEAR'S schedule, officers of the Student Wives. Shirley Mathews, Kathy Sayre, Kay Pratt, and Fern Fieseler also consider what to plan for supper on the home front.

For the week from tonight seniors will get their hands on the PHT significant of their college education. Tonight, however, several members of the Student Wives will receive their PHT degrees.

In the annual banquet, to be held in the J. W. Jones Union building, those women whose husbands will graduate May 27 will receive recognition for "Put Hubby Through." This event will climax the Student Wives' second year on campus. The organization consists of approximately 50 wives whose husbands are students. In some instances, the women are students themselves.

The group meets regularly each month. Programs for meetings have been prepared by a representative of the Internal Revenue Service, a Maryville merchant advised on decorating Christmas packages, a local lady who presented a group demonstration, and an actor from the Department of Home Economics who helped wives plan the get-acquainted tea for the more than 100 wives eligible for membership last fall.

Federal Act Provides $80,000 For Grants to Continue School

Are you in dire need of a grant to finance your college education? Are you wondering where to get aid?

If you are, the Higher Education Act of 1965 may be the means of getting you assistance. The sum of $80,000 has been granted to Northwest State College to help deserving students who meet the academic requirements.

The grants, however, are not based on grades; they are made according to need. The program was primarily set up to establish students in school. Renewals will be made as long as the recipient's financial status does not change significantly if he maintains his academic average. This academic requirement does not necessarily mean maintaining more than a 2.0 grade point average.

In reality, $160,000 is available for grants-in-aid. The Federal Government allocates $80,000 which must be matched by a college which gets such money. While the Federal portion given a student is nonrepayable, that given by MSC is repayable by the student according to the form in which it is given.

Unless the student receives his grant in the form of a scholarship or unless he contracts to do student work, he will receive his assistance in the form of a loan. In this case, the recipient must repay the aid.

Grants are available to incoming freshmen as well as to upper-classmen. In addition, out-of-state students are eligible to apply for the grants.

The assistance is limited to actual school expenses. A Missouri recipient may receive up to $1,330 if he lives in a dormitory, and an out-of-state student may receive up to $1,530 if he lives in college approved housing. Only $675 of the latter amounts is nonrepayable.

If a recipient ranked in the upper half of his class during the preceding year, his grant can be increased by $200. This bonus actually cuts down the amount of loan which he must obtain from other sources. In other words, the bonus lessens the amount which he must eventually repay to MSC.

Application forms are available at the business office, according to William Needels, who is in charge of the project.

Toni Johnson Gets Maryville Branch AAUW Scholarship

Miss Johnson has received several signal recognitions. Recently she pledged Kappa Delta Pi, honorary educational fraternity. She is president of Kappa Pi art fraternity, and is fine arts chairman of the Union Board.

She was named first runner-up in the 1966 Miss Maryville contest. The honoree maintains a high scholastic average, is active in Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority, and works part time in the Department of Fine Arts.

The daughter of Mrs. Charles Johnson, Miss Johnson hopes to continue her studies in art on the graduate level.

Leaders Accept People to People Charter

ACCEPTING THE CHARTER from Robert Curry, assistant director of university affairs, People-to-people headquarters, Kansas City, are Elaine Sherman, Maryville, president-elect, and Michael Thompson, Bury St. Edmonds, England, outgoing president of the MSC chapter of the organization.

Pins were also presented to national members at the May 9 meeting which featured a program by Norvel Saylor on his European travels.

Other officers for the 1966-67 year will be Meredith Rearjstad, vice-president, Elaine Murry, secretary-treasurer, Ronda Kelly, corresponding secretary, and Anne Morgan, program chairman.

Music Text Author To Direct Workshop At Northwest State

Miss Alice Gallup, assistant supervisor of music, Long Beach, Cal., will be the consultant for the workshop in elementary and junior high music, scheduled for July 18-22.

Miss Gallup is also one of the authors of the new basic series for grades K-8, The Magic of Music published by Ginn and Company.

For a number of years, Miss Gallup was a music consultant in the Kansas City public schools and was a supervisor of music in Newton, Mass., public schools before going to her present position in Long Beach. She holds degrees from the University of Kansas and Columbia University. She has held workshops in elementary music at the University of Wisconsin and George Peabody College for Teachers.

According to Miss Ruth Miller, who is in charge of plans, the workshop will emphasize methods and materials of the last five years which are making an impact on the teaching of music in U. S. schools at the present time.

The sessions will consist of two morning sessions of an hour and a half each with a half hour break between sessions, Monday through Friday. Afternoons will be devoted to individual or group conferences, surveys of audio-visual materials, including previews, and special interest sessions that the members of the work-

Elaine Sherman Named Phi Sigma Sweetheart

Miss Elaine Sherman, a junior from Maryville, was named Phi Sig Sweetheart at the Phi Sigma Epsilon Orchid Ball held Saturday evening in the Blue Room.

The theme of the annual ball was "Southern Belle." Larry Messerli, senior from Council Bluffs, Iowa, was named as the Phi Sig of the year. Gary Cain, senior from Oakland, Iowa, received the scholarship award for having the most improved grade points.

shop may request. One hour of college credit will be offered for the course.

A special chamber music concert will be given at 8 p. m. Monday evening during the workshop. The performing group will consist of two members of the MSC faculty, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Sanford, viola and piano; Mrs. Margaret Kew, first violin; Mr. Louis Riemer, second violin, and Mrs. Katherine Farley, cello.

Mrs. Farley is on the faculty of UMKC in Kansas City; Mr. Riemer is concertmaster of the St. Joseph Symphony, and Mrs. Kew is also a member of the St. Joseph Symphony Orchestra.

Sherman, Noah Head New Cheerleaders

Recently elected varsity cheerleaders are Pat Noah, Elaine Sherman, Cheri Jordan, Dottie Wilson, Linda Snell, and Kathy Seabaugh.

Pat and Elaine were named co-head cheerleaders. The girls will go to a clinic at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, compliments of the school.

Miss Bonnie Magill is the sponsor of the yell leaders.

Kansas City Opera Troupe Please Audience With 'Marriage of Figaro'

By Marjorie Hitchcock

A well-balanced cast from the Kansas City Lyric Theater, directed by Russell Patterson, presented an entertaining and exciting performance last week when they enacted W. A. Mozart's opera buffa, "The Marriage of Figaro," in the MSC auditorium.

The opera, based on the play by Beaumarchais, was well received by the large audience of students, faculty members, and town people.

Miss Patricia Wise as Susanna, beloved of Figaro, captured the audience's hearts with her beautiful music, vivacious pantomime, and graceful motions. A student at the University of Kansas, she was the only non-professional in the production.

Every eccentric role, that of the court musician Antonio, the gardener, Count Almaviva, was played with enough individuality and oddity to keep the spectators chuckling.

Each member of the cast shined the audience with outstanding musicianship. Period Court costumes added color to Acts III and IV.

Fragmentary scenery complimented by attractive panels and screens suggested the settings for the opera. Lighting and paintings gave a pleasing three-dimensional effect in the finale, a night garden scene.

The theatrical group was brought to Northwest Missouri State College by the United Board in cooperation with the Missouri Council on the Arts.

Seniors Get Cash Awards In National Essay Contest

Two Northwest Missouri State College seniors have learned that they are among eight national winners in the 14th annual essay contest sponsored by the American Society for Personnel Administration.

Linda J. Jones, Coon Rapids, Iowa, and Charles Edelen, Des Moines, will receive $25 cash prizes for being listed among the six honorable mention winners.

Miss Jones, who is a business education major, wrote an argument against the repeal of essays from among 22 submitted at MSC.

Charles Edelen

More than 450 colleges and universities were contacted to enter students' work. The judges were unable to select a third place winner; therefore, six honorable mention positions were created for the vying participants.

1906 Grads Receive Diplomas After 2 Years College Work

On Aug. 6, 1906, Northwest Missouri State Normal School held its first graduating exercises at the First Christian church, Maryville.

The forerunner of Northwest Missouri State College granted diplomas at the completion of 60 hours of work to 48 students, 43 women and 5 men. Some of the group were later graduated again after an additional two years of work.

Two of the first graduates, the late Miss Nelle Hudson, registrar, and the late A. H. Cooper, instructor in education, served as members of the MSC staff.

Two members of the class known to be living in the Maryville area are Mrs. Roy Myrtle Eckles Lippman and Miss Bertha E. Northcutt, long-time teacher in Maryville Public Schools.

A member of the 1906 graduating class, Oakley Risser, is a distant cousin of one 1906 class member, Georgia Alena Risser. Another member of the original graduating class is Mrs. Roy (Edith Vayne Neal) Judah, an Oklahoma City resident who has continued her interests in teaching and in recent years has been a substitute teacher.

Class officers included Mr. Cooper, Barnard, president; Alice Orcutt, Maryville, vice president; Ethel Graves, Maryville, secretary, and Richard L. Smith, Rock Port, treasurer.

Other 1906 graduates were Golda Airy, Jessie Florence Alkire, Nelle Arney, J. Arthur Baker, Jessie Baker, F. E. Barbour, Maude E. Bent, D. G. Bridges, Addie Brown, Olive B. Carr, Edith Clary, Hazel Cunningham, Inez Dillon, Mary Alice Donohue, Anna E. Emmer, Lucy Inez Fleming, Agnes Blanche Fryar, Emma M. Graham, Gertrude Gray, Grace Gray, Lois Halley, and Elmer Holt.

Others were Esta Myrtle Jackson, Virgie Kimmins, Hol-

President R. P. Foster To Address Seniors

The annual Senior Breakfast will be held at 8:30 a. m. Thursday in the Blue Room of the J. W. Jones Union Building.

President Robert P. Foster will deliver his address to the seniors at that time. Marcene Severson is in charge of arrangements for the breakfast.

en E. Leffler, Maude E. Lyle, Althea Miller, Eliza Munn, Bess L. Nixon, Maude Partidge, Fanny Jeannette Patton, Byrd Irene Peret, Myrtle Peret, Hazel R. Perry, Mary Ross, Nellie Pearl Shine, Bessie O. Stephenson, Nellie Sutton, Lulu Todd, and Edna VanDeventer.

The certificates were bestowed on the graduates by President C. J. Colden, for whom Colden Hall was named, and president of the faculty, Frank Deerwester.

Following the Faculty In Off-Campus Work

Delegate to World Meet

Dr. Robert P. Foster, president of Northwest Missouri State College, will be a delegate to the World Conference on Methodism to be held in the Central Hall, Westminster, London, England, from Aug. 18-26.

Dr. Foster was appointed a delegate from the western conference of Missouri by Bishop Eugene M. Frank, Kansas City.

Air Force Basic Cut to 4 Weeks

SSgt. Jimmie Cantrell, United States Air Force recruiter, Maryville, has announced that Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex., and Amarillo Air Force Base, Amarillo, Tex., has been cut to four weeks.

Staff Sgt. Cantrell also stated that there no longer is a waiting list for enlistments.

His office telephone number is 582-5621; his home number, 927-3788. The Maryville recruiting office is in the Chamber of Commerce center.

Veteran GI Applications Available at Courthouse

According to Edwin Carmichael, Nodaway County veterans administrator, the applications for students eligible to attend school under the new GI Bill are available at the Maryville Courthouse.

Applicants are asked to bring a copy of their DD Form 214. If a student is married, he should also bring a copy of his marriage license.

ACS Honors Seniors At Oak Room Banquet

The Student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society honored graduating seniors at a banquet May 12 in the Union Oak Room.

Dr. J. G. Strong, guest speaker, presented a history of chemistry as he covered the developments and achievements in this important field of science. Darrel Mercer, president, introduced the honor guests and told of their future plans.

The next meeting of the ACS will be an organizational meeting in September.

Sophomores Head Committees For Union Board Activities

Robert Foster III and Phyllis Bowman are the Union Board leaders who are being introduced this week as the last in a series, published periodically in order that faculty and students might know their representatives.

Foster, a sophomore psychology major from Maryville, is the chairman of the Union Board special activities committee. He has been selected as in the progressive jazz band. Foster is also a charter member of the People-to-People chapter at MSC.

Robert Foster III

as pledge trainer of Tau Kappa Epsilon and is a member of the Inter-Fraternity Council. Being an avid trumpeter, Foster has earned places in both marching and concert bands as well

Debaters to Plan for Fall

Any student who is interested in competing in intercollegiate forensic activities next fall is urged to see Jerry Winsor, forensic director, in the speech office, fourth floor, Administration Building.

Phyllis Bowman

Miss Bowman, also a sophomore, is active in Greek life. She is the assistant pledge trainer of Alpha Sigma Alpha and is a member of Daughters of Diana. Phyllis was graduated from North Kansas City High School. She has decided on an elementary education major. As chairman of the Union Board publicity committee, she is concerned with many campus affairs.

Phi Sigs Hold Banquet

The annual Founders Day banquet, commemorating the founding of the Nu Chapter of Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity on the MSC campus, was held Saturday in the Blue Room.

Fraternity members' fathers were guests at the banquet, which was attended by 150.

I AM MAN

I am content only in lust, and fulfillment of desires in my goal.
Greed, passion, recklessness are inborn—there is no stopping my headlong flight.
I am man—his body.

I am constant only in questing.
I fly on the wings of knowledge.
I search, I probe, I doubt, I reason.
To halt my flight is to drive me mad.
I am man—his mind.

I am constant only in struggle.
Only with that that I cannot conceive might I find peace.
I do not know that heaven exists, but I pray in the tumult.
I am man—his soul.

—Linda Horn, '69
Kansas City

MEMORY

When I think back on golden days
Of haloed suns and rainbowed skies,
It seems my mind recalls it all,
My heart dispairs; my spirit dies.

My eyes see gentle drops of rain
That fall on cities dark with night.
Two lovers splash through muddy pools.
Their lips meet with caresses light.

My heart recalls sweet words of love
That seemed as music to my ears;
And if I hear them nevermore
Their strains will haunt me through the years.

A hearty laugh and wistful smile,
A stroll through fields of verdant blades—
The memory of those yesterdays
Will linger till my heartache fades.

—Linda Britt, '69
Smithville

NIGHT

Moon glows white on valley-mist;
Dew is heavy and star-kissed.

Earth breathes softly, as in sleep.
Stealthy forms through shadows creep.

Night-bird cries, clear and cold;
Wolf is prowling, hunger-bold.

Generations of the stars
Smile at mortal tears and wars.

Winds arise and brush the trees;
Moon sails westward to the seas.

Drowsy stars now blink and yawn—
Bright night yields to coral dawn.

—Sandy Fry, '69
New Hampton

DIGNITY

(A Meditation on "The Angelus" by Millet)

The western sky is faintly red;
The sun's no longer bright:
'Tis dusk that marks the close of day
And ushers in the night.

Two figures in an open field
Have set aside their tools;
Their heads are bowed for silent prayer.
A calm serenity rules.

The peasant's life is lowly—
No earthly gain has he—
But now at the close of another day
He stands with dignity.

The twilight sky is darkening fast;
The workers must go home.
'Twould be a lonely walk, except
They make it not alone.

—Shirley Hooper, '69
Maryville

JAPANESE HAIKU

I

Oh, I am guilty.
Of that you all may be sure—
But may you punish?

II

Though I am guilty
I, too, am the son of God—
Have I salvation?

III

I do not ponder
On my meager existence,
But I am hopeful.

—William F. Limbacher, '67
Farragut, Iowa

I AM YOUNG

I wait,
I wait,
I mustn't wait too long.
But old is watching me
And so, I can wait no longer.

I sing,
I laugh,
I will sing and laugh for now.
I am young
But old soon will haunt me
And I will sing and laugh no longer.

I dance,
I love,
Dancing and loving is my pleasure.
I am young
But old is searching for me
And soon I will dance for love no longer.

I care,
I cry,
I care and cry for happy and for sad.
I am young
But old will find me
And then I'll care and cry many times longer.

I will not wait.
I will not wait.
Waiting is for old,
And I am young.
I dance and laugh, love and sing, cry and care,
And put my trust in God and life.

—Diana Hitchcock, '69
Altoona, Iowa

BUT NOT QUITE ALL

My hubcap's lost,
My tires are worn;
My muffler's gone,
My cover's torn!

Windshield missing,
Battery low;
Dented fender,
And motor's slow!

Blinking signals
Are surely lost;
To have them fixed
Might mean some cost!

Single headlight
Instead of two;
Watch out, buddy;
This might hit you!

The car's worn out
But not quite all;
The radio
Still blares her call!

RECURRENCE

The night was dark
As indigo.
It blanketed
The world below.

The moon was hidden
By the clouds.
Its silvery light
Was wrapped in shrouds.

On such a night
Dark changed to dawn.
The moon shone bright,
Became the sun.

For on this night
It came to me—
A love so true
It had to be.

Love forced the sun
To warm the earth;
It gave life meaning,
Purpose, worth.

But as I watched,
The sun grew stark;
The void returned.
The world was dark.

For my brief love,
Though warm and bright,
Had left me with
The coming night.

—Linda Britt, '69
Smithville

APLANATISM

When he was young
He thought divine
His lovely, lace-trimmed valentine—
The bashful smile,
The blushing face,
The half-grown bumbling—budding grace.

He held her close.
He stroked her hair
And touched the sun that lingered there.
He watched her change
From child to miss;
He gave her First Love's feather kiss.

He gave her all
Of love he knew.
But suddenly a cold wind blew
And cooled the embers
In her heart.
She sighed, "Alas, my love, we part."

When he was young
He thought divine
His lovely, lace-trimmed valentine.
But older now,
He shuns the lace
And searches 'neath a lovely face
To know the soul
That lies within—
And then he breaks his heart again.

—Marilyn Wood, '69

MOON CHILD

Returning through the
Moon-silver evening grass,
She stops with waiting eyes,
Folds her crumpled wings,
And, rose-like, curls her
Tender, groping ears against
The night noise.

—Michael Fletcher, '67

PLAY THE GAME

Play the game; live the lie.
Take a chance; the stakes are high.
Join the puppet people.

Simon says, "Play the game . . ."
Twiddle your thumbs and do the same
As the line of puppet people.

Join the shadow play on the wall;
Pretend as if there were nothing at all
In such mockery that repulses.

Play the game of hide and seek;
Hide from self and search till weak
For a play-house way of life.

He mimics well who knows and dreads
The pointing fingers and shaking heads
Of the mob of puppet people.

Minds of marble, glassy eyes' stare,
Too paralyzed from pretense to be aware
That anything better exists.

Ask not the prize of the hum-drum game
But join the line in doing the same
Meaningless, perfunctory motions.

Now you're "It"; they've covered your eyes,
Groped and probed in the dark for the prize
You know you'll never grasp.

Frustrated, dizzy, you struggle to peek
At the fleeting prize, but the puppets shriek
That you cheat at the game of life.

So . . .
Live the lie; play the game;
Join the dirge the chorus sings—
Or . . .

Snatch the blindfold from your eyes;
Behold the force that pulls the strings!

DARKNESS

Darkness watches me through my window.
It holds its treasures just out of my grasp.
It teases me with its secrets

It gives me only a glimpse to fit into the picture of my life.

TWILIGHT

Here,
In the twilight of the year,
I watch a single star.
Day and year are fading fast.
Soon the hour will be past
And I must journey far.

The night is very clear.
Countless other stars now shine;
But I dare not to call them mine,
For I am filled with fear.
One star is very bright—
Telling me that life is more
Than hope of peace and threat of war,
Or shades of black and white.

I think of death and birth,
Wondering if there's truth in fear,
And when the twilight comes next year
Will starlight find the earth?

LOVE CAME SILENTLY

The rain came silently.
It was late and no one must be disturbed.
It rushed to safety among those that begged for its existence.

Silently rain tiptoed on the soft blanket of shingles above my head.
It slipped around the shutters.
Its stringy form made my window gleam.

My nose pressed against the cool glass,
I saw this gift of silence.
Silently it whispered on its mission of love.

THE ABYSS OF MAN'S MIND

Oh, damned, darkened dungeon!
You who so readily deceive our youth
And tarnish his sparkling soul.
To you he comes to learn,
To turn his mind to richer fields.
Yet you with your barren fist
Smite him down amidst the smut
Of the ignorant world,
Stomping, kicking, never yielding
A cultured breath for which he seeks.
For you, blind, insolent beast,
He must conform and yield, evermore,
His right to think, to reason, to be.
Because of you who boast
Yourself the divine source of wisdom,
The strand of mighty minds
Which you so greedily stifle
Shall reach their final link.
And, once the spark of life is gone,
You shall ask, "Why?"
And only to yourself reply,
" 'Twas him and only him."

—Joseph Sheil, '69
Mt. Ayr, Iowa

BETRAYAL

We walked through silent meadows,
He and I;
We gazed at the immense and
Starry sky.
He said that he would give me
All his love;
He swore by all those stars so
High above.

But then another came, took
Him away,
And then I saw in the cold
Light of day
That promises, so binding
In the night,
Are easily forgotten
In the light.

THAT DAY

That day the sun smiled,
and the trees shook with laughter
because the breeze was tickling them.

The lavish color of the grasses beckoned me,
and I cast aside my shoes
so I could feel the dry coolness of those narrow blades.

That day the clouds of cotton puff balls stood motionless like gooey marshmallows stuck to a blue china plate.

The sounds of summer whispered in my ear,
and my body grew more silent
so I could hear the wondrous message of those ancient philosophers.

That day and its beauty made my heart probe, and I knew that I hungered for a portion of truth.

NIGHT RAIN

Streetlights wink through alternating droplets.
A heavy, cooling breeze begins to blow;
It strengthens and begins to sway the treetops
While silver pigeons swoop to circle low.

Soon raindrops gather force and sweep the city,
Rinsing every dusty street to shine.
Bright lights are diamonds in the pools of water.
The air is sweet and clear like sparkling wine.

The heavy scents of traffic wash away,
Replaced by fragrances almost Divine.
They waver on the wisps of breezes, crying—
Haunting memories of some lost time.

My heart swells up and smiles at all the rainbows
Shining in the windows, and I pity
Those who laud the country's summer lightning
And never know the rainstorms of the city.

LINES IN REFLECTION ON CRIME AND PUNISHMENT

Your hand? I will not take your hand —
Nor your purse, your soul, nor your love.
Away! go back — do not torment me
With offers of help — I need no help,
I am free, free of your society.

But of myself? Can I not be free of myself?
Must I constantly be immersed in a personality
I do not like? I long to soar,
Soar like the wind through the trees and be free.

—William F. Limbacher, '67
Farragut, Iowa

PRELUDE TO VIOLENCE

I sit and think, if it may be called that,
For what is this madness before me?
My mind reels in tortured agony,
But I am powerless to stop it.
Then, as a stranger I sit and ponder;
Still can't grasp the evil in my heart.

What can it be? I ask this of myself.
Some lost remembrance a long time past;
One tiny glowing spark that has lingered,
Rekindled by the warm breath of time?
Or a deep yearning for some awesome deed
I lack the courage to discover?

How do I harbor such hideous thoughts
When more important things loom at hand?
Is it that I wallow in self-pity,
Seeking release through this lowly means?
Am I on the brink of something loathsome,
An act, perhaps, of gruesome detail?

Enough! Then let my poor soul rest from this;
The wretched thesis that threatens me.
Down to the dank depths of degradation
I shall hasten; and, beckoned by the Sordid execution that appalls me,
Yield to the foul thought that binds me.

—Rog Hunter, '69
Council Bluffs, Iowa

REVELATION

I sit and look out my window.
I see barren trees and gray skies.
My hopes are gone and my spirits low.
I realize that someday we all must die.
I reflect upon my years.
I count my memories.
I remember by tears.
Suddenly, I begin to live.
I see green grass and sunshine.
I realize that I have so much to give.
I have time to make the world mine.

DID HE KNOW?

When Homer wrote The Iliad,
Do you think he ever guessed
That some day men would rank his work
Among the very best?

Did he know that students everywhere
Would read his poem and wonder
About the gods that roamed the earth
When they left their mount of thunder?

Could he have known then, long ago
That his writings of love and war
Would live long after he was gone—
The favorites of ancient lore?

Tales of bravery and of might
He told with words expressive.
Did he suspect that yet today
Those words would sound impressive?

—Linda Cox, '69

TEMPORARY PASSPORT

He clasped my hands in his and smiled
The wistful smile of dreamers who
Live in fantasies like wisps
Of smoke and make me live there, too.

I watched his eyes grow bright as he Began to see in things I saw
As ugly, depths of such delight
I stared in wonderment and awe.

He held a dead leaf in his hand
And showed me how, in shades of brown,
That Life and Death were immortalized;
But I thought of bright leaves tumbling down.

He kissed a little dandelion
And held it close before my eyes.
The tiny petals glowed like drops
Of sun, I touched them in surprise.

But I thought of how the dandelion
In summer months, once gold and gay,
Grew withered, shrank, and finally changed
To silver clouds and blew away.

Thus, though he showed me Life in Death
And made me see things clear and true,
Unlike him, I went one step more
And found that Death dwells in Life, too.

—Marilyn Wood, '69
Kansas City

INVITATION

Come with me into a world of darkness
Where there's no tomorrow, no today,
Not even a yesterday for memory's sake.
Come far away from terror and tribulation:
From a world of light wherein one sees
The evil of himself—a human being
Shoved about in the dungeon of society
Whose laws are designed by other humans
Made powerful by wealth or unfair usurpation.

I can show you quietness in Silence,
My land of calm and utter rest.
You'll no more feel the cold of winter
Through a coat worn thin and ragged.
Or know the unbearable heat of summer
In small rooms crowded into tenements.
Come away, far away, from daily torture—
The struggle to get ahead or simply
To stay above the level of starvation.
The hour is here; you can make your escape.
Come with me now, and I'll show you reward.
Follow me, into the Sleep of Death.

—Linda Cox, '69

Jim Graham to Act in Japanese Theater

One of a number of students who add variety to MSC life is James J. Graham, Tokyo, Japan, who has a cosmopolitan background in education and traveling.

Jim's formal education varies from schooling in England to classes in California and Japan. When he was six months old, he and his mother traveled to Iran to be with his father. Later the family moved to Turkey and then traveled throughout Europe wherever Jim's father, an Air Force major, was stationed. He is now serving in the diplomatic service in Tokyo.

As a freshman, Jim attended a public school in England. A large California school provided the academic training he received in his sophomore year. He attended school his junior and senior high school years in a military dependents' school in Japan.

At the age of eight, Jim began taking dancing lessons. Six years later he began to dance professionally. Jim has since played the role of Baby John in "West Side Story" and Hugo in "Bye Bye Birdie." Both were presented by the Tokyo Playhouse.

Summer plans for Jim are to return to Tokyo and work in summer stock there. When asked why he does this work, Jim answered simply, "I enjoy it, and it pays well."

Students Receive Recognition For Unique Business Letters

EAGERLY AWAITING the arrival of their plaques for the unique winning business letters submitted to The Sales Letters Round Table, Mrs. Edward Browning, instructor, and Jack A. Cooper, seated, and Diane Beltinghouse and Connie Perlenfein, standing, inspect a plaque received last year by Linda Greenwood.

Snoopy, smoke signals, and "nothings" all helped several MSC business students win plaques and recognition in The Sales Letters Round Table, a monthly publication of outstanding letters submitted to Sales Management.

In conjunction with their work in Business Report and Letter Writing, students sent original letters to Sales Management. For their efforts they received individual plaques and publication of their letters in The Sales Letters Round Table. Mrs. Edward Browning, business instructor, noted that, to her knowledge, these were the first letters written by college students to be used in the publication.

Linda Greenwood, Blythe-dale, was the first winner at MSC. Last year, after noticing a punctuation mistake in several of the publication's model letters, she wrote a letter calling the mistake to their attention. Miss Greenwood used a sketch of the cartoon character Snoopy to add interest to her letter.

This year three students submitted letters, and each received recognition for the excellence of his entry. In order to show their full appreciation for the talent displayed by students, Sales Management sent an individual plaque to each of the winners.

Diane Boltinghouse, Lenox, Iowa, submitted a collection letter to a teenage girl using as her point of interest the "nothing" animal, one of today's fads. She stressed that it is important for the "in" crowd to maintain a "nothing" credit balance.

Another winning letter, written by Connie Perlenfein, Tarkio, pictured smoke signals spelling out "Pay Now." Miss Perlenfein's letter, also a collection sample, was written in an Indian's broken English.

The third letter was written by Jack A. Cooper, Dearborn, Mich., who used a series of cartoons featuring a forgetful, rough-looking character whose conscience gets the best of him. This year's winners' letters will be published in the forthcoming issue of Sales Letters Round Table.

Sweethearts Make Headlines As Spring Envelops Campus

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Krumme, Faucett, Missouri, announce the engagement of their daughter, Gail, to Stephen R. Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mitchell, Fairfax.

Miss Krumme is a senior at MSC majoring in marketing. Mr. Mitchell is a junior majoring in chemistry. An August wedding is planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Berg, Maryville, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Linda Elaine, to Robert Glen Hobbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Hobbs, also of Maryville.

Miss Berg, a graduate of Mt. Alverno Academy, is presently attending MSC, where she is majoring in French and English. Mr. Hobbs, a graduate of Maryville R-II High School, is majoring in business and physical education. A spring wedding is planned.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Ray, Maryville, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Ann, to Leroy C. King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon King, Blockton, Iowa.

Miss Ray is a member of the Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority and King belongs to the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity. Both are seniors at Northwest State.

The couple will be married May 22.

Mr. and Mrs. August Sager, Stanberry, announce the engagement of their daughter, Judy Kay, to Richard J. Cummings, son of Mr. Howard Cummings, Oskaloosa, Iowa, and the late Mrs. Cummings.

Miss Sager is a senior at MSC, majoring in general business and physical education. Mr. Cummings, a graduate of MSC, is a mathematics instructor at Shenandoar, Iowa.

The wedding is planned for June 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Heathman, Smithville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Minnie, to Richard Graw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Graw, Marshalltown, Iowa.

Miss Heathman is majoring in elementary education, and Mr. Graw is majoring in industrial arts. Both students are seniors at MSC.

The couple is planning a summer wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jermain, Conception, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Kay Protzman, to Vincent Richard Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Sullivan, also of Conception.

Miss Protzman, an MSC freshman, is majoring in English, and Mr. Sullivan is employed by Conception Abbey Press. A September wedding is planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Graham announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Cal-

Are You Selling the College?

Or Selling Out?

"We will transmit this College to those who come after us, greater, better and more beautiful."

This, a part of our state college oath, should make us stop and think. Do we really promote MSC to those with whom we come in contact—at home, in the community, even on campus?

How many times do we complain about the long lines at registration? About having to walk a few steps out of our way because of the construction crews? About seemingly impossible-to-please instructors?

Are you sure there was not a visitor listening to your sharp remarks? A tax payer who supports MSC? Or a prospective student?

In order to honor the MSC oath, we must learn to appreciate the fine things which far surpass those things we find undesirable. The many courses of study offered, the beautiful new buildings, and the well qualified personnel certainly deserve our attention and vote of confidence.

You can help promote MSC. Or you can be a factor to her downfall. The things you say may help a prospective student accept or reject Northwest Missouri State.

MSC is "greater, better, and more beautiful" than ever before.

Are you doing your part to help keep her that way?

—Bea Runyan

Hudson Hall Residents Get New Walk

Hudson Hall students and personnel are proud of the new sidewalk connecting the dormitory with Colden Hall.

Early in the year, Hudson Hall Council voted to finance this project. With the guidance and cooperation of President Robert P. Foster, Luther Belcher, business manager; Robert Seipel, superintendent of buildings and maintenance, and Miss Karen Licklider, dean of women, plans were completed. The sidewalk will soon be ready for students' use.

To commemorate the occasion, Dick Graw designed and constructed the pictured special stencil block to be placed in the cement.

Shown on a portion of the newly constructed sidewalk are, kneeling: Lois Sutton, Rachel Templeman, Susan Cisco, and President Foster. Standing are Sue Shew, Mrs. Dorothy Hildebrand, house mother; Miss Licklider, Mr. Belcher, and Mr. Seipel.

President Foster Speaks at ACE Annual Breakfast

President Robert P. Foster gave the address, "The Value of Becoming Professional," at the annual breakfast honoring seniors given Sunday by the Association for Childhood Education in the Birch Room of the Student Union.

The Chloe E. Millikan Awards, which were presented to Miss Karen Jorgensen for scholarship and to Miss Nancy McHenry for service, were acknowledged. The awards were presented for the first time in the history of the organization at the Honors Assembly. The awards were named in honor of Miss Chloe E. Millikan, who organized the first branch of ACE on the Northwest Missouri State College campus in 1927, and served as its sponsor until she retired in June, 1961. Loren Burkhalter, a senior, was presented an ACE pin for his outstanding service the past years.

Installation of officers was held at the close of the breakfast. Miss Neva Ross, sponsor, closed with an appropriate poem entitled "Building with Children a Better Tomorrow."

Phi Sigmas Induct 30 Active Members

The Nu Chapter of Phi Sigma Epsilon initiated 30 men as active members May 10.

New actives from Missouri are Bill Alexander, North Kansas City; Mike Allen, Platte City; Charles Boyer, Maysville; Ed Duzenberry, Allen Stevens, Penny Wenzel, Excelsior Springs; Phil Edwards, Smithville; Gene Hogue, Jim Ward, Albany; and Leonard Archer, Jeff Funston, Tom Peake, Mark Schirmer, Don Steele, Mike Miller, and Tom Wiles, Maryville.

Other new members include Dave Barr, Blue Island, Ill.; Greg Collins, Lima, Ohio; Fran Schwenk, Red Hill, Pa.; and Tony Weinhold, Ephrata, Pa.

Mike Miller was named outstanding pledge by the active chapter, and the pledge class selected Jim Johnson, Lombard, Ill., as the outstanding active member.

Singers Needed

Anyone interested in singing in the Tower Choir next year should contact Byron Mitchell in the Olive DeLuce Fine Arts Building.

Singers will be needed in every section. Voice quality and speed in learning a part are the main factors to be considered when choosing new members, Mr. Mitchell stated.

Annual Workshop Open to Advisers, Publication Staffs

NWMSA will hold its fifth annual Publications Workshop for college students and high school advisers June 13-24 in Colden Hall.

The two-hour credit course is planned to help advisers and college students who would like to have training in working with school publications. The high school advisers who attend the course may enroll from one to four of their high school staff leaders.

Enrollment fees for a college student or high school sponsor will be $16; high school staff members may attend for $8, provided they are under the supervision of an adviser who is taking the course for credit.

Mrs. T. H. Eckert, MSC's journalism instructor, will direct the workshop as she has each of the past four summers. She has also assisted with workshops at the University of Missouri for four years.

Victor Buntz, Oregon High School yearbook adviser, will be in charge of photography and several of the yearbook sessions. He was an aid at the MSC Workshop last year and also served on Mrs. Eckert's yearbook workshop staff at MU last summer.

Jack Gray Jr., member of the field service staff at MSC, will teach a series of sports writing sessions. Mrs. James Hitchcock, Atlantic, Iowa, will serve as a teacher aid. A number of other guest lecturers will give one-hour lectures.

People desiring further information about the English elective credit course may confer with Mrs. Eckert at the Missouri office from 8 to 9:50 each week day.

... Twinkle Toes? Has one MSC coed opened her own ballet school in the faculty lounge in Colden Hall?

The Stroller wants to congratulate Colden's prima donna on her fine performance, and he also extends his condolence to the painter who fell off his scaffold while intently watching her inspiring performance.

... MSC's campus walker has taken an acute interest in the firm that is attempting to match mates by computer. He hopes that by next fall, he can stroll around the pond with one of the computer lasses.

... All of the fraternity and sorority help-weeks and initiations are finally over. Congratulations go to all of those initiates who did not sleep during class periods.

... Speaking of the pond, the Stroller is relieved that school is almost finished, and he has not been thrown in the pond. Well, maybe he is even more relieved that there hasn't been a reason to throw him in.

... Approximately 600 men took the selective service exams Saturday, with more scheduled to be tested in the future. The Stroller hopes MSC men competed favorably with men elsewhere in the U. S. A.

... Historical Note: In 1770, the British Parliament passed a law which stated, "All women of whatever age, rank, profession or degree, whether vir-gins, maids, or widows, that shall impose upon, seduce or betray into matrimony any of His Majesty's subjects, by scents, paints, cosmetics, washes, artificial teeth, false hair, iron stave hoops, high heeled shoes, bolstered hips or padded bosoms, shall incur penalty of the law enforced against witchcraft and like misdemeanors and upon conviction, that marriage shall stand null and void."

All of these subterfuges women use to trap us poor helpless men still are shocking.

Secretaries, Nurses Honored at Open House

Dr. and Mrs. Robert P. Foster entertained NWMSA secretaries and nurses at an open house Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Wilbert Zirfas, secretary in the President's office, presided at the punch table. College coeds assisted.

... Campus Calendar ...

- May 20-21 ... Baseball division playoffs
- May 20 ... Tower choir concert, Charles Johnson Theater,
- May 21 ... Delta Kappa Gamma luncheon, 12 noon.
- May 23-27 ... Final examinations.
- May 27 ... Commencement, 8 p. m.
- June 6 ... Registration for summer session.
- June 7 ... Classwork begins.

Young Bearcat Sluggers End Season, 8-1

The young MSC sluggers have rounded out their baseball season with a record of eight wins and only one loss.

The freshman - sophomore team, coached by Bob Iglehart, made a good showing this season in their nine games. In their closing game with Trenton Junior College, pitcher Hal Rassow allowed only three hits. The final score, 8-1, was in favor of the Bearcats.

Coach Iglehart pointed out that next season's varsity team will be getting some help from this year's outstanding freshmen and sophomores. Some strength will be drawn from pitchers Jim Pool, Dave Ellis, Bob Shantz, and Rassow.

Don Hicks should give depth to the first base post, and Mike Kurtz is expected to strengthen the short stop position. Ed Younger, Jim Smith, and John Helsel are expected to get into action in the outfield. Freddy Wise, catcher, will likely be seen behind the plate during the next varsity season.

The young team faced its most difficult match at Creston Junior College when the 'Cats were forced into two extra innings before they could get the winning point.

When asked to comment on the season in recap, Coach Iglehart stated that the team performed "better than expected." He added that he is looking forward to coaching the beginning squad next season.
